BIZ/Syska Hennessy Group Partner to Offer an Energy Efficiency Service

Business Information Services, Inc. (BIZ), a Technology Services & Consulting company has partnered with Syska Hennessy Group, a leading Consulting Engineering firm to offer a unique service that will assist firms in identifying energy saving opportunities within their facilities. This Energy Efficiency Service offering begins with a no cost assessment of one or more of your facilities. Upon completion of the assessment we will deliver a proposal that identifies efficiency improving opportunities ranging from no cost/low cost operational enhancements to targeted upgrade and modification of systems and infrastructure. All recommendations will include a summary of options along with estimated costs and anticipated savings. We will also provide an assessment of applicable financial incentives and rebates available through local and regional government programs. The goal of this service is to provide our clients with significant annual energy cost savings and a meaningful contribution toward environmental objectives.

About Business Information Services, Inc. (BIZ):

Business Information Services, Inc. ("BIZ") founded August 1997 has a management and operating philosophy focused on business partnerships and long-term relationships. Integrity, Trust, Responsibility, Performance, Reputation, and Relationships are corporate values that are the cornerstones of the company's foundation. Every action the company, its employees or its contractors take must be taken with strict adherence to these corporate values.

Therefore, as an example, BIZ will not accept or participate in short term business that jeopardizes long-term relationships. Wall Street is the target marketplace and has a mode of operation based on trusted relationships. Firms want to work with service providers who value long-term relationships and prefer not to work with transaction driven service providers. Wall Street firms are attracted to companies who demonstrate sustained performance not just one time successes.

BIZ provides technology services for Wall Street financial services companies. The services are very focused with emphasis on providing expert resources for a particular assignment. The company hires employees or contracts consultants with skills that are specifically targeted at providing clients with the best possible service for the project. BIZ seeks to provide superior talent to clients to support infrastructure services, application services, corporate relocations, and business/disaster recovery services. BIZ technical recruiting services provides consultants to supplement client staff and permanent hires for infrastructure and application development.
